

CLAY BARN SUMMER EXHIBITION 2009 REVIEW

The exhibition was a great success, despite the garden being flooded on Saturday and Sunday by incessant rain. Carry, Sheila and Beatrice were able to demonstrate their making techniques on the Friday and Monday.

Beatrice's sculptures and Sheila's mosaics looked their best in the beautiful garden setting, come rain and shine.

Miraculously what is Louise's working studio - firing her ceramics just days before - became the indoor space for another exciting and varied exhibition, a perfect combination of six artists work, see details - web page 'past exhibitions' – 'more information'.

The musicians were able to play outside on Sunday afternoon after the rain, brightening the dull day. Familiar faces and still new ones discovered the delights of this welcoming exhibition venue. Work has already begun towards November's Clay Barn Exhibition - be sure to join the mailing list.
